A private, calçada driveway meanders on to the property into an enclosed, spacious courtyard which extends a friendly welcome on arrival. With gentle sounds from the water feature, relaxation and dining areas provide a perfect reception for entertaining guests.

This is a classic build with character and personality. The older features are supported by an immense amount of natural light and a comfortable flow that cleverly provides both privacy and social areas. The level of comfort is extended further as the seasons change with central heating provided by gas radiators in all rooms, air conditioning units and two wood-burning fireplaces.

Electric gates give access to the courtyard that invites you to step inside this comfortable home. Standing in the entrance hall, first impressions are framed by extensive exterior views from both the hall and living area. Large single pain windows and patio doors lead your eye through the property, across the swimming pool to panoramic views. From this central point, the villa divides in to defined habitation areas: Remaining on the ground floor, 2 steps facilitate a raised floor to a guest bathroom, master bedroom suite with dressing room and staircase leading to 3 bedroom suites on the 1st floor. The south, west facing lounge benefits from both patio door access to a terrace and gardens and sets of windows to enjoy the Algarve sunset throughout the year. On the otherside of the entrance hall, a long corridor has open arch access to the kitchen and dining areas, pantry/store room, utility room and boiler room. At the far end of the hall a staircase is one of 2 access points to the basement where a wine cellar and tasting room. walk in safe and large storage room occupy this lower ground floor. The hall also gives access to an enclosed courtyard that houses the machine room and water heater.

The property has a covered parking area for 2 cars conveniently located to the side of the property. In summary, an immaculately presented family property in a wonderful setting.
